

An Invitation to Practice

In the midst of the noise of competing interests moving beyond the shouts of yes or no, in or out, left or right and the growing talk of conflict and war.

This is a call to those looking and listening for another path, for other ways of being that embrace the one and the many.

A call to a quiet, hidden place of retreat hosted in the foothills amidst the company of strong trees where paths like threads meet and part.

A call to the whelming source of life's flow to joyfully nourish the roots of well being on land that gives life to people.

A call to those, near and far, who are stirred by the pipes to come to the dance with a spring in your step and a desire to welcome what is yet to be conceived.

A call to true servant leaders, today's warriors of the heart who are ready to forge sharp tools in the heat of the moment as weavers in the art of letting go and midwives of the new.

A call to both lead and follow
Along the way of the wild geese
Going only where needed, doing simply what matters.

Warrior of the Heart Dojo

Falkland, Scotland, April 2017

You are warmly invited to join other “warriors of the heart” in a three day residential dojo to learn and share new ways of seeing and responding to the challenges of our times.

At a time of increasing uncertainty, rapid change and potential disintegration of many aspects of the world as we know it, this timely gathering will provide space to slow down, explore new practices and sharpen skills that help bring about clarity and centredness.

In an ancient place of retreat and of weaving, this will be a time for “me” & “we” to retreat, reflect and draw strength from being with other leaders and practitioners working with chaos & order, unity & diversity.
